

If the NAB spent as much time trying to clean up the garbage radio broadcast that they allow on the air now they would not have to whine to the FCC about XM's supposed infringement. Poor management and insensetivity to the mass listener is no excuse.

The FCC should spend its time cleaning up the sex and borderline pornographic language allowed on the airwaves available to our young people and adults as well.

If the FCC prohibits local traffic news on satellite radio is the prohibition of broadcast of local television channels via satellite next. Mr. Government stay out of my private life that I pay for.
